Slice of italy pizza northfield

Brooklyn known for its extravagant pizza, from a slice of artisan coal oven pizza to the traditional slice in the neighborhood pizzeria, it's hard to go wrong. While many notable pizza restaurants only let you buy a pie, these exceptional spots offer customers a slice. Fortunately, the concept of serving slices is gaining popularity in Brooklyn's artisan pizza community and is opening a one-piece shop later this year after local favorite Pauli G. Although Brooklyn's pizza is teeming with places, there are a few slices that stand out. Enjoy taking a DIY pizza tour around Brooklyn with this list of the twelve best slices of Brooklyn of pizza! 01 stretch of Table 12 87: Usually when you want a piece of coal oven pizza you're committed to buying a pie, but thankfully all the commitment phobic people can enjoy a slice on table 87 coal oven pizza, which is Brooklyn's first slice-by-piece coal oven pizza offering. Slice: You might want to order more than one slice of this delicious thin crust coal oven pizza with home-made mozzarella. The piece is light and crispy. You can add toppings, but Margarita Pizza is so delicious, you may not want to add it. Just note, they have gluten-free options. Location: With three locations in Brooklyn, including one in Brooklyn Heights on Atlantic Avenue near Brooklyn Bridge Park, another on 3th Avenue in the hyper-fashionable Gowanus section of Brooklyn, and another in food court in Industry City, each location can easily fit into sightseeing any day around Brooklyn. If you can't do it for Brooklyn, you can order a frozen pizza on their website and in various supermarkets, thanks to Shark Tank. Cost: $4.00 A plain piece. Stretch 02 of 12: Although at first glance the Brooklyn pizza crew appears to be an ubiquitous storefront Brooklyn pizzeria, it's not. Graffiti art on the wall and wooden table makes the place feel more modern. Piece: Handcrafted Artisan Take On Traditional Piece . The fresh ingredients of the Brooklyn pizza crew makes their slices stand out. Sophia Loren, absent of the sauce, is packed with light, flavor and satisfying. Granny's piece tastes like familiar favorites, yet their version is just a little fresher than the usual piece. They also serve a square piece that should not be missed. Location: Located on Nostrand Avenue in Crown Heights, the Brooklyn Pizza Crew is around a fifteen-minute walk from the Brooklyn Museum and Brooklyn Botanic Gardens. Cost: $2.50 for a plain piece and $3.25 for a Sophia Loren. 03 stretch of 12 L&B Spumoni Gardens: L and B. Spumoni Gardens evokes the feelings of authentic Brooklyn, and locals hang on to the red picnic bench as they eat some of the best pizzas in Brooklyn. Piece: Order the famous square piece and see why people tend to travel all the way in Bensonhurst/Bensonhurst. The square piece is perhaps the most divine blend of donny, airy, and cheese. To the room for Spumoni. Location: This place is quite a trek from Manhattan and Brownstone Brooklyn, but it's worth it. And remember, it's not far from The Island of Connie, if you want to make a trip along the beach trip. There's a parking lot, but it gets very crowded and you may have to wait for a place. Cost: $2.75 for a plain piece. 04 of 12 Two Shoes Pizza Address 284 5th Ave, Brooklyn, NY 11215, USA Phone +1 Stretch 718-499-0008. Families flock to this Brooklyn staple, named for the geographic size of Italy and Louisiana. This quaint Pizza Place is a neighborhood favorite, which serves cajun-Italian inspired food and incentive pizza. The piece: With pizzas like Earth Mom, Mel Cooley, Larry Tate and many other pies with names that pay homage to pop culture, you may giggle several times when you read the menu. Although the two shoes are named Playful Pizza, that doesn't mean they don't take their food seriously, they do. Tangy thin crust pizza can be made with whole wheat crust or gluten free. Even if you stick to a cheese slice, you'll be mesmerized by pizza explosive yet not on absolutely heavy taste. Location: The original Park Slope restaurant closed a few years ago, but the current location on Park Slope's vibrant 5th Avenue retains all of the funky home attractions from the original digs. After finishing your slices, you can shop the window at indie shops that line 5th Avenue. Cost: $2.75 for a cheese slice. Continue to 5 out of 12 below. 05 of 12 Di Fara Pizza Vibe: Lines abound at this midwood pizzeria which consistently makes the list of the best NYC pizzerias. Since 1960 legendary pizza maker Domenico DeMarco has been crafting the pie smartly behind the counter. Watch him at work as you wait for your piece. Slice: The thin crust pizza is light and airy and topped with fresh basil. Obviously since Domenico DeMarco has been making the pie for over half a century, he has perfected the art of cheese/cheese. Location: A little off the deep beaten path in Brooklyn, despite the long haul DiFara should make a trip for all pizza lovers. Try to go an off-time to avoid long waits. Cost: $5 for a slice of pizza. 06 of the 12 best pizza vibes: Housed in a former bakery in Williamsburg, the walls of the home pizzeria are decorated with customer design paper plates. Slice: Pizza, made of a century-old oven, is topped with a signature single basil leaf. Thin crust pizza doesn't disappoint, and locals swear by white pizza. Location: Located in the heart of Williamsburg, it is the ideal stop after a shopping trip on Bedford Avenue or a walk in the scenic waterfront East River State Park. Cost: $3.25 for a plain piece. 12 Front Street Pizza Vibe of 07: This casual pizzeria is a local favorite. In any area that has undergone a profound transformation from an industrial area to a paradise for high-end condos, galleries, boutiques and businesses, a great place for this pizzeria A budget-friendly meal with our discarded taste. Slices: They have the usual pizzeria offerings, but their fresh thin crust pizza (with or without topping) is delicious and filling. They also have gluten free options. Location: People at the bottom of the block are lining up to get a table in Grimaldi, but if you want to catch a quick piece in dumbo, that's the place. Cost: $2.75 for a plain piece. 08 of 12 screams pizzeria vibe: Vegans should make a pilgrimage to this vegan pizzeria in the heart of Greenpoint. There is a limited seating arrangement, so don't expect to be dull. Piece: You may not know that you're not eating real cheese when you order a piece on the screams. Fresh pizza is so delicious that you can second guess if it's a traditional slice. If you want to be decadent, order toppings, including roasted beets, vegan ham and seaton pepperoni, and many others. Location: The cozy shop is located on Manhattan Avenue Hike in Greenpoint. After filling out vegetarian dishes, find the shops in the area. Cost: $3 down for a plain piece continues to 9 out of 12. 12 addresses of 09 8610 5th Ave, Brooklyn, NY 11209-5202, USA Phone +1 718-836-5725 Vibe: There's a certain 80 vibe, with reviews framed from that decade on the wall, it makes you feel like you're eating on the set of Americans. Although a wonderfully authentic retro vibe dominates this space, the food is incredibly fresh and a staple in Bay Ridge. Hold a seat and order a piece and a coke, and listen to the locals chat. Slice: Pizza is the perfect combo of cheese and sauce and the dough is light and crispy. Maybe that's because the smell of fresh cheese and herbs fill the air, but the pizza wagon is one of those places that you can't help ordering two slices because you've eaten the first slice within seconds. They also serve a meaningful square piece. There's the best strategy for food to order both. Location: Located on 5th Avenue off of 86th Street in the center of Bay Ridge, it's a few steps from the 21st century, and shops in this part of Brooklyn with views of the Verrazano Bridge, and which was featured in the 70's hit Saturday Night Fever. Cost: $2.50 for a plain piece. 10 of 12 Layla Jones Vibe: This cozy family-run Cobble Hill restaurant serves pizza, pasta, press sandwiches and salads. Spacious backyards are the ideal place to eat when the weather is good. Take a picnic bench and relax at this family friendly location. Piece: The square piece in Layla Jones is fresh, light, crispy and has a sweet sauce. Although the plain Jane piece is sly in its simplicity, you might want to order a piece with pepperoni or mushrooms. Location: The restaurant is on Court Street in the heart of Cobble Hill just a short walk from the Bergen Street stop on the F train. After finishing the meal, walk on an avenue to Smith Street and peruse many boutiques or walk across the Atlantic toward downtown Brooklyn. Cost: $2.50 for a plain Piece. 11 of Stretch 12: This neighborhood pizzeria has been servicing the working coast and it has residents for more than 60 years. Still located on the same block it originated back in the early 50s, for authentic Brooklyn pizza to stop in. Piece: Locals flock to this spot for a slice or a deep-fried calzone. You can take your picture, but for those who enjoy a plain piece you might hit gold here. Your fragrant chili pizza with fresh cheese and sauce is sure to hit the spot. Location: Located on Union Street in Carol Gardens, the area was once an Italian enclave and the setting for the 1980's film Moonstruck, but has changed in recent years. However it is still home to many Italian restaurants. Across the street is the historic Focucceria of Ferdinando, and local pizza shops abound. Yet the home of pizza and Calzone stands out in this heavily saturated area of pizzeria. Stop for a piece, but save room for a deep-fried calzone. In the warmer months, dine in the spacious backyard. Cost: $3 for a plain piece. 12 of Alison Lovenstein Vibe: This no-frills, old-school pizzeria has been serving fresh slices for more than 50 years. Slices: Although you can fill your piece with different toppings or order a granny's slice, a plain piece is perfectly layered with cheese and you can fold it (like many New Yorkers do) as you eat this classic. Location: Retro sign clear on you as you enter the pizzeria, set the vibe for Antonio. Pizzeria is the real deal and if you've never stepped inside the NYC pizzeria, it should definitely be on your itinerary. Located on Flatbush Avenue near Prospect Park, it's also steps right near Park Slope 7th Avenue, and a short walk to Barclays Center and downtown Brooklyn. Cost: $2.75 for a plain piece. On a budget? They have a special one, where you can get 2 slices and one soda for $6. $ 6.
